HONGKONG, MAY 23ED, 1890.

THE Sarawak Gasette of the lat inst. contains an article in justification of Rajah district. When the annexation was announced both the Singapore papers commented on it unfavourably, viewing the action taken as high handed and unjustiffable. It remains these seen what view the home Government will take of the matter. but it must be confessed that a very plausible this task, but the Sultan was animated by a as well as by Sarawak, and as a consequence Great Britain would have been compelled to effect some arrangement for the restoration of tranquility to the disturbed district. The Raigh admits that the annexation would be unjust and unlawful unless strong grounds were shown to the contrary, and he professes to have been influenced by solely philanthropic motives in taking the action he did. If the action had been taken twelve months ago it would have had a better appearance of disinterestedness, but being taken just on tection it is suggestive of a desire to effect pected from China. an acquisition of territory before the excuse for the aggundisement was removed. The Rajab having promised to give the other officers belonging to the club. It appears the Limbang chiefs every belp to obtain justice said he found now that the only way for him to keep his word was to annex the admission was immediately raised by forty of the district, as the Sultan was bent on revenge. Compensation is to be paid to the Sultan of Brunei for the loss of the territory, in the shape of an annual revenue, the amount of which Governor CREAGH, of British North and warmly welcomed, while the forty will have Borneo, is to be asked to fix. The Sultan will thus, be a gainer peconiarly and the effect of good Government in Limbang will react beneficially on Brunei itself. On the whole, therefore, it seems desirable that the annexation should be approved, adequate inducement being of course offered to the Sultan to acquisce in the arrangement.

He arrived on the 1st April. 1889, and ten weeks later left for Australia, the fire is thought to have been caused by where he spent several months in inspecting the fortifications and working out a scheme of Colonial defence. The period of his residence in Hongkong is therefore reduced to about half-a-year. During the short time he spent amongst us, however, the gallant officer commanded the respect of the community by his professional qualifications and gained the goodwill of all with whom he came in contact by his genuine bonhomie. Li Fok Ting was charged with the manslaughter of Wong Achi, aged 35, by shooting him, at house No. 5, Test tenimui, about p.m. on the 10th June. 1889. The facts of the case appear to be that about that time and date the deceased was purchasing some opium at a shop No. 4. Test-taxi-mui. Shaukiwan, next door to a gambling house. A number of men, amongst whom was the prisoner, made a raid upon the gambling house, and during the time a rorelyer was seen to be fired by the prisoner striking the deceased in the chest and killing him. Another man was also injured by receiving a bullet in the cheek. The robbers then all made their escupe, and the prisoner returning to the village a few days ago was identified by the brother of the deceased

Inspector Corcorar, who is in charge of case, stated that the shopkeeper was now dead and that the man who was shot in the cheek had gone some time ago to Canton, but he thought if a remand was granted, the witness might be got. If not, he thought there might be great difficulty in proving the case. His Worship granted a remand till Wednesday, allowing bail in two sure ties of $50 each.

FIRES AT SEA AND LABUAN COAL

At a recent meeting of the Singapore Engineers' Association the business of the evening was a discussion on "Fires at sea." introduced by Mr. R. Park. Mr. Park said that the subject he had the honour to introduce was one affording plenty of serpe for discussion. The most common cause of fires at sea was spontaneous combustion; engineers should take great care that the fires in the stokehole were properly burning; stoking was a matter that all engineers should thoroughly understand. In the case of ships loading jute in Calcutta or wool in Australia. cases of spontaneous combustion were very frequent, and in such instances the fire, rarely ocsurred in a spot where it could be easily reached, but more generally in the centre of the cargo where there was a great jeal of heat accumulated Mr. Park then gave several experiences of his own in connection with fires in coal bunkers. Another prevalent cause of fire was the generaion of inflammable gases in certain cargoes. particularly among coal. Bunkers should never reach a higher temperature then 100 deg. Fahrenheit or great danger resulted. Mr Park finished with a technical explanation of the difference between a " mechanical compound and a " chemical mixture." Mr. Alien strought condemned having any most officials in China, and was the patron and | woodwork about an engine room; the room a window on the 10th inst whilst attempting discoverer of Li Hung-chang. MAKERS-UP OF FACES. The artificial ear, nose, and cheek restorer same into existence abortly after the close of the Civil War. The distinuting wounds of many soldiers taxed the ingenuity of the medical profession, and it was not long before advertisements in the public papers announced that Dr. So-and So was able to repair all ravages by sword and shot. Many an old soldier with his nose shot away by a bullet cleft in half by sword, willingly welcomed these announcements, and it is said that in the first few vears after the war the apectacle of a man with a wax nose attached to a pair of green eyeglasses, was so common that it was bardly noticed. In the present day, however, a man's nose can be duplicated without the artificial attachment to his face being detected except on the closest scrutiny. I - was talking yesterday to a gentleman whom I met in the office of an artificial ear-maker on this very topic. He was a man with a singularly sweet voice and a heavy black moustache beneath his delicately chiselled nose. "You are right." said he, "in saying that science has learned how to become almost a twin-brother to majure. Do you notice anything populiar about my face ?" I confess. ed that I did not, and he laughed as he said, "Look here." He then put his flager in his mouth and touched something in his upper nalate. The next moment his nose fell into his hand, a false palate dropped out of his mouth and there he stood speechless and horribly hideous, with a deep hole in his face where his that "riding brings out and exaggerates any nose back; it was made with a shaft stretching will be resfully received by many cyclists old fastened a small bolt connected with the nose shaft, could find in all New York. Not a bad story comes to hand from a village not far from the town of Beaune in the sunn; province of Burgundy. The favourite pastor of the parish was a round jovial faced little Abbe, who enjoyed a good glass of wine; and so as a surprise, the villagers, who were mostly small vintage owners, agreed to give him a pleasant surprise by filling a wine tun that was lying empty in his back yard, and present-ing it to him on his birthday. Hach man was to bring his share of wine, and pour it into the cask quietly at night. The next morning the cask was decorated with wreaths and flowers. All the friends assembled, and the leader presented the full decorated cask of red wine, good sound Hurgandy, though of no special brand, to the delighted Abbe. Glasses were brought, and with cries of "Vive M'sieu l'Abbé!" all stood round to drink his bealth, his old housekeeper turned the tap, and drew out the first glass, but, miracle of miracles, the wine had be-come pure white water! Each cuming peasant had thought his share of water would not be noticed among the other wine, but their unanimity had worked a miracle by no means acceptable to " M'sieu l'Abbé.
